

More photos from Italy

PHOTOS PROVIDED

Abby Kellett looks out at the Arno River that runs through Florence, Italy. Kellett, a Harding University public relations major, was studying abroad over spring break.

Abby Kellett is pictured with Andrea, owner/founder of Dolcemente, a gelato shop in Scandicci. Kellett writes, "When I studied abroad in 2008 I'd walk two hours to his store nearly every day just to visit with him and eat his gelato, (he rarely let me pay.) Two years later when I went back on this trip and walked into his store, he recognized me instantly and showed me the postcard I'd sent him from Chicago; it was hanging on his shop's wall."

Harlem High School graduate Abby Kellett drinks a spuma bionda at Cafe Mario in Florence, Italy, while on a Harding University study-abroad trip over spring break.

MILESTONES | WEDDING

Taylor-Fagen

Sara Marie Taylor and Joel Scott Fagen were married at 1:30 p.m. on April 17th at St. Raphael's Cathedral in Dubuque, Iowa. Monsignor Wayne A. Ressler officiated. The couple and their families hosted a dinner and dance that evening at the Hotel Julien, Dubuque. Parents of the couple are Joan and Raymond J. Taylor of Dubuque, Iowa, and Patricia and David A. Fagen of Rockford, Illinois, formerly of Burlington, Iowa. The bride owns BlueFront Strategies, a strategic consulting and news media firm, focused on helping corporations and trade associations with crisis, brand and advocacy management. In 2009, she co-founded Resonate Networks, an online advertising platform. Sara worked for 8 years for President George W. Bush, in both of his campaigns and in the White House. In 2005, he appointed her Deputy Assistant to the President and Director of the Office of Political Affairs. She is a graduate of Wahlert High School in Dubuque, Iowa, and holds a Bachelor of Science in Finance for Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa. Since 2000, the groom has been a photographer and satellite uplink engineer for the international Fox Cable News Channel. He began his career as a combat videographer for the U.S. Marine Corps. After his service, he joined the news industry, first in Rockford, Illinois for NBC affiliate WTVO then moving to Fox affiliates in Fort Myers and Tampa, Florida. In 2000, he joined the Fox News Cable channel in the Atlanta, GA, bureau and then the Washington, D.C., bureau. During his tenure with Fox News, his assignments have included covering the wars in Afghanistan, Iraq and Israel. He is a 1984 graduate of Burlington Community High School. He attended Western Illinois University and the University of Northern Iowa. The couple met at a wedding in San Miguel De Allende, Mexico, in 2007. They will honeymoon in Italy and reside in Arlington, Virginia.

Tell us about your milestone

To have information about your engagement, wedding, anniversary or birthday appear in People of the Rock River Valley, call the Register Star Classified Advertising department at 815-962-2400 to request a form, or go to rrstar.com/placeanad and click on the type of announcement you have under "Place a celebration ad in People."

GO

Your Guide to Having Fun

Rockford Register Star
rrstar.com It's what you know.

Weekly planner

Every Monday in print in GO and online at go.rrstar.com.

